PERIODICALS ABSTRACTED

A number of abstractors and readers have suggested that the Ecumenical Abstracts section would be improved by a list of periodicals which are being followed by our abstractors in a particular volume of The Journal of Ecumenical Studies. With this issue we are attempting to satisfy this need and hope that the readers will find the list useful. The periodicals are listed by countries and then alphabetically, as they are in the journal. In this issue we are presenting a smaller list of journals than the one we use in preparation of the abstracts section. This means that some journals from which articles have been abstracted are not included because they have not been continuously surveyed by our abstractors. Even those that are listed have not received the same kind of attention, due to a variety of circumstances. Those journals which have been consistently and more carefully reviewed are marked by an asterisk. This, of course, represents the abstracts editor's personal judgment, but is not to be interpreted as an evaluation of the care with which an abstractor has been following the journal because often it reflects merely the difficulties which we experienced in allocating or mailing the journals. We are working so that in the future the need for making this distinction will disappear.

We would appreciate your response and suggestions to this feature, as well as information pertaining to journals not yet covered by us.
